Claims 9, 17-19, 21 and 23-26 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in Paper No. 8.

The text of section 103(a) of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claims 1-3, 6-8, 10, 12, 22, 27 and 28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hamazu et al., Buchwalter et al., Starkey and Green '592 in view of Greeen et al. '938.

Ohnishi et al. is withdrawn due to the lack of recitation of the claimed anhydride as the curing agent. Otherwise, the rejection is maintained for the reasons of record set forth in the previous Office actions. The arguments filed July 16, 2003 have been considered but are unpersuasive.

Hamazu et al. and Green '592 disclose a combination of a photopolymerization initiator and an anhydride curing agent. The claimed amount of from 0.3-1.4 mole of curing agent per mole of photopolymerization resin is not recited.

Buchwalter et al. (col. 8, Example 1) shows a blend of 1.8 parts by weight of acetal diepoxyde (i.e. acetaldehyde bis(3,4-epoxycyclohexylmethyl)acetal according to col. 3, lines 13-15), 0.91 part by weight of hexahydrophthalic anhydride and a photoinitiator such as the disclosed sulfonium salt (col. 3, line 22). The molar quantity of anhydride is $0.91 \div 154.17 \text{ g/mole} = 0.0059 \text{ mole}$. The molar amount of diepoxyde is $1.8 \div 283 \text{ g/mole} = 0.0064 \text{ mole}$. The molar ratio of curing agent per mole of photopolymerization resin is $0.0059 \div 0.0064 = 0.93:1$ which is within the claimed range.

Starkey espouses as much as 10 parts by weight (col. 21, lines 12-19) of a thermohardening catalyst such as the elected species of maleic anhydride per 100 parts by weight of an epoxy resin such as the elected species of 3,4-epoxycyclohexylmethyl-3,4-epoxycyclohexane carboxylate exhibited in Examples 2 (cols. 21-22) and 5 (col. 23) along with an aromatic sulfonium salt. The molar amount of maleic anhydride is $10 \div 98.6 \text{ g/mole} = 0.10 \text{ mole}$. The molar quantity of the cycloaliphatic diepoxyde is $100 \div 316 = 0.316 \text{ mole}$. The molar ratio of curing agent per mole of photopolymerization resin is $0.10 \div 0.316 = 0.32:1$ which is within the claimed parameters.

It would have been obvious to employ the anhydride curing agent of Hamazu et al. and Green '592 within the molar ratios of Starkey and Buchwalter et al. of from 0.32:1 to 0.93:1 in order to complete the curing of the epoxy resin and to attain sufficient strength without crystal precipitation or decreased stability (Starkey, col. 21, lines 17-23).

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
